Drawing on extensive experience litigating and negotiating complex, highly contested matters, I bring informed judgment to a broad range of litigation matters and develop effective legal strategies tailored to each client's individual objectives.

My primary practice areas focus on real estate and construction law, as well as business and commercial litigation. I provide practical legal solutions for clients who are working towards a goal and have encountered a legal challenge along the way. Using a client centered approach, I aim to be a trusted advisor and aggressive advocate, helping clients to understand their case and offering objective counsel. I work diligently with my team and client to determine the best course of action for each legal concern, carefully evaluating and managing risk at every stage.

My litigation experience has involved representation of large corporations, small business, and individuals in breach of contract cases, mechanic's liens proceedings, bond claims, disputes after the sale of a business, title and boundary issues, landlord-tenant disputes, estate and probate litigation, homeowners' and condominium association matters, and collections.
