I am and always have been motivated by helping those in need with the utmost care, especially when it comes to navigating a difficult, sensitive, and complex matter.

I handle business disputes, commercial litigation, and family law disputes in court and arbitration.

When it comes to business dispute and commercial litigation, I offer a unique perspective given my background in business. Being closely involved in the operations of a business for over fifteen years, I truly understand what is at stake. I pride myself on my strong attention to detail, creative solutions, communicating concerns proactively, and maintaining transparency throughout the process to meet the client's expectations. Prior to joining McMillan Metro Faerber, I worked as a commercial litigator and served as general counsel to a company. As a commercial litigator I was involved in helping individuals and businesses on matters involving breach of contract, breach of fiduciary duty, unjust enrichment, false advertisement, real estate disputes, professional negligence, employment discrimination, defamation, and administrative claims. In addition to representing individuals, I have represented boards of directors, pharmaceutical firms, restaurateurs, and construction companies. As General Counsel for an environmental engineering firm, I focused on transactional matters.
