

Health Care Transactions

The attorneys at McMillan Metro Faerber appreciate that every type of business transaction, be it the sale of a small, single-owner business, the acquisition of a multi-owner, multi-entity business operation, or the merger of multiple entities as part of a larger industry growth and tax-savings plan, involves unique legal, regulatory, tax, and business issues that require the right team of experts to navigate the transaction. This certainly is true for every health care business transaction, no matter the size. Our health law attorneys have handled hundreds of health care transactions over the years and understand the complex legal, regulatory, and business issues that must be considered in every health care transaction. Here are some of the Health Care Transaction areas where McMillan Metro Faerber provides experienced legal advice and representation for our clients:
