

Types of Health Care Businesses Represented

At McMillan Metro Faerber we appreciate that health care legal issues, health care providers, and health care businesses come in all shapes and sizes. Our health care lawyers regularly work with large, mature, multi-state, multi-location health care businesses, small and emerging start-up and single-location health care businesses, individual health care providers, and non-professional businesses that serve the health care industry. We value and understand each client's unique circumstance, goals, and legal needs. No client is too large; and no client is too small. If you run a business that regularly works in the health care industry, we would welcome an opportunity to serve you and your business.
